THE NOURMAHAL HURT AGAIN.

THIS TIME SHE TRIES TO RUN OVER A PAPERS READ AND COMMITTEES NAMED. PENNSYLVANIA FERRYBOAT.

HER BOWSPRIT WAS BROKEN OFF, PUT SHE KEPT

ON TO SEE THE YACHT RACE-FERRY PASSENGERS FRIGHTENED.

John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Nourmahal, while coming down the Hudson River yesterday morning on her way to attend the yacht race, ran into the Pennsylvania Railroad ferryboat Washington, with disastrous results to both vessels. The ferryboat had left Jersey City at 9:25 o'clock, and was about one-third of the way acrose the river when the Nourmahal approached her from the port The captain of the ferryboat says he whistled twice, signifying that he would slow down and let the yacht cross his bows. Other witnesses say he whistled only once, which would mean that he ntended to cross in front of the yacht.

The yacht acted as if the ferryboat meant to pursue the latter course. Without answering the whistle as she should have done, she steered sharply to starboard, probably intending to pass behind the ferryboat. The captain of the latter, either be-cause he had always intended to do so, as he says or because he became confused, stopped his boat and then backed her, with the result that the Nourmahal's bow struck the ferryboat's forward deck squarely, cutting into it for a distance of four feet. Instantly the yacht was put at full speed astern and quickly separated from the ferryboat. then started down the river, apparently determined not to miss the race, no matter what happened. On the ferryboat, which was crowded passengers, great excitement prevailed. It is said that two of the women on board fainted, while others were badly frightened. The vessel returned to her slip in Jersey City, where the passengers were transferred to another boat, and the Wash-ington was then taken to the Hoboken shops of the company, where she will be repaired. The damage will amount to about $1,000. A great wedge-shaped piece has apparently been cut of the forward deck, and the iron cross-beams near it have been badly bent. The hull has not

CAPTAIN TINSLAW MAKES A STATEMENT.

R. B. Tinslaw, captain of the Washington, sald yesterday that when he saw the Nourmahal approaching on his port side he at once rang to slow down, and blew two whistles to show that he mean to give the yacht a clear way. To his surprise she suddenly sheered toward him. He then rang to back and blew an alarm whistle. He had sternway on when the yacht struck him.

William E. Ferguson, president of the Mutual Towing Company, witnessed the accident from the deck of the company's tug Timmins. He says the Washington blew one whistle, not two, and that he supposed she meant to cross the yacht's bows, as signal indicated.

The Nourmahal dropped anchor off West Thirtyfourth-st, at 8:30 o'clock last night, and her launches were busy for some time in bringing the passen gers ashere. There were about one hundred people on board altogether, and about half of these re-mained there for the night. No one would say any thing about the collision or tell who was on board. A RUMOR THAT THE YACHT WAS RACING.

A visit to the yacht elicited no further information. First Officer Johnson denied that Mr. Astor was on board and refused to permit Captain Curtis to be seen, or to give an account of the accident. The yacht's bowsprit, broken short off, was lying

It was also said that she was racing with J. Pierpont Morgan's steam yacht Corsair when the collision took place.

Less than two weeks ago the Nourmahal ran on some rocks in the Hudson River, off New-Hamburg, and had her hull badly damaged amidships. She was docked at the Erie Basin in Brooklyn, and was repaired just in time to attend Monday's race. While there she was one of the chief offenders in getting in the way of the racing yachts.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION IN THE MISSION FIELD -THE NEED OF UNITY-REPORT OF

THE TREASURER.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 11.-The second day's ession of the eighty-fourth annual meeting the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions opened in Mechanics' Hall this n ing. There was a large attendance. Presider Storrs called the meeting to order, and the peop sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." The Rev Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, of Lexington, offered prayer The Committee of Fifteen to consider all reso-lutions and memorials relative to the controver sies before the Board was appointed as follows Henry D. Hyde, chairman; the Rev. Dr. A. H. Quint, the Rev. Henry Fairbanks, Professor George P. Fisher, Ezra Stevens, the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Paimer, the Hon, J. M. W. Hall, President C. F. Thwing, Chester Holcombe, Presiden Samuel C. Bartlet, John H. Washburn, the Rev Dr. James Brand, A. Lyman Williston, the Rev. Samuel H. Virgin and Galen C. Moses. The comnittee immediately went into private session, in which the Noyes resolutions will be considered The Rev. James L. Barton, a missionary from Harpool, Turkey, spoke of the importance work in that country. After prayer by the Rev. Dr. Savage, of Chicago, and singing of "The Morning Light is Breaking," the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Daniels, of New-York, read the paper of the Rev. Dr. N. G. Clark, from the Prudential Committee, on "Two Unsolved Mission Problems." One of the problems related to the use and limits of industrial education in the mission field; the other to unit in the presentation of the Gospel to the unevan gelized world. As to the first of these problems th ommittee believes that it is evident that industrial education must be adapted to the condition different mission fields, and will be in inverse proportion to the degree of civilization found in each value to the missionary as a means of influence on the native community has been illutrated in the splendid career of Bishop Pattison, of Melanesia, of Dr. Paton, of the New-Hebrides, and, f possible, still more remarkably in Mackay, of Uganda.

As to the question of unity in the presentation of the Gospel to the unevangelized the committee concludes its paper as follows: "Let no creed or form of church organization or ritual be imposed. At most the missionary will suggest methods until such time as the native church shall attain its majority. Let there be no more jealous rivalry of denominational interest, no more waste of men or means in building up separate sects, but one Gospel, one Christian life one united movement on the part of all evangelical denominations. Then would the great offence of Christianity—the multiplicity of sects an creeds-be done away; then would the Church be one in her mission enterprise; then would she ris and shine, the glory of the Lord being risen upon her. No more parliaments of religion, but con-ferences of the Christian world."

The Rev. Dr. Judson Smith, Foreign Secretary, presented a paper from the Prudential Committee on "The Work of the American Board in Africa." This paper is a history of the mission work in Africa from its beginning in 1834. The four mis sions in Africa are reported to be in a satisfac condition, and doing most excellent work. A paper was also presented by the Prudentia ommittee on "The Personal Factor in the Misdonary Problem."

close of Dr. Clark's paper there was an address by the Rev. Robert A. Hume, of India, who deprecated the lack of spiritual desire for salvation among converts.

Committee on the Treasurer's Report The Committee on the Treasurer's Report reported that the offices had been conducted with ability and intelligence. More than 90 per cent of the income of the board reaches the work of the foreign field, and the remainder is well spent. Regular gifts have failen off $2.05$. Contributions for the year were larger than those of any year previous to last year. Including legacies and all, the total receipts have failen off nearly $165.00$. The committee declored the business depression in the country. An income of $1.000.000 a year is necessary. New interest must be excited.

From The Philadelphia Leeger.

The Democratic party has won a partisan victory in the passage of the Repeal bill, but it will prove to be a boomerang if it shall be used in the Senate to defeat other and more important measures of reform, or if it shall be used as a cover for Democratic frauds in elections. As a rule partisan action of this kind recoils upon those who resort to it. The way for parties, as for men, to win success is to deserve it.

Mr. Olney said the stockholders would observe that the familiar name of Frank Jones, of Portsmouth, was omitted from the printed ballot offered for acceptance by stockholders. That omission was not only with Mr. Jone's consent, but was against the wishes and consent of the directors, who had repeatedly and strenuously urged him to consent to a re-election, but for personal reasons Mr. Jone's had come to the conclusion that he could no longer serve the corporation as director.

Chicago, Oct. 11.-The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New-York, to-day began suit in the United States Court against the Chicago and North-ern Pacific Railroad Company, and Judge Jenkins appointed Henry E. Howland, Walter Van Norden and Richard Morgan receivers for the company. Proceedings were begun at the request of holders of mortgage bonds representing about $10,000,000. Of this amount about $2,000,000 certifi-cates were taken by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., for their loan, and the rest covered scattered loans. The third game of the Series was played at the Pole counts yesterday, and the Brooklyn team won after a close and decidedly interesting game. Ward and his nen found fault with Galliey when he stopped the game on account of darkness and when he called Millipan's homestum hit over the left field fence a foul. Still the Newt-Yorkers played slovenly at times, and the men from Brooklyn deserved their victory. Kinslow caught in spite of the child issued by C. H. Byrne, the president of the child, that Kinslow should not play in the series. A remarkable running catch by Stafford in the eighth inning was the striking feature of the same.

Brocklyn scored a run in the opening inning on a base on balls a sacrifice by Corcorao and a hit by Foutz. They got three in the third inning on hits by Corcoran and Eurns, errors by Decile and some amateurish jugiting by the entire New-York infield. Corcoran made a home by the entire New-York inheld. Corcoran made a non-run in the fifth, and Haiffeld's three barger and Doyle's error gave them their last run in the eighth. The Giants made two runs in the second inning on a base on balls, Counci's three barger and Stafford's series

They got another in the fourth on a base on ball and hits by Fuller and Ward. Their final run was made in the seventh on hits by Ward and Burke and a scribbe by Thernan. The teams will play at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, to-day. The score;

CONNECTICUT DAY AT THE FAIR.

ADDRESSES BY GOVERNOR MORRIS AND OTHERS AT THE CELEBRATION-ANOTHER GREAT CROWD ON THE GROUNDS.

Chicago, Oct. 11.-Nearly 500 prominent residents of the Nutmeg State were at the Fair to-day to celebrate Connecticut Day. At noon, Governor Luzon B. Morris, with his staff the State Commissioners and State of Lady Managers surrounded the Colum-blan Liberty Bell, which was rung by the Governor and the members of the two State boards in honor of Connecticut's admission to the Union in 1776. The Iowa State band played at the building most of the day and during the exercises. The Rev. George C. Woodruff offered prayer and D. S. Read, Chairman of the State World's Fair Executive Committee for Connecticut, spoke briefly regarding Connecticut's history and display at the Exposition. Mrs. George H. Knight, president of the State Board of Lady Managers, delivered an interesting address on woman's work. Chairman Read gave a brief sketch of the work of the Board of Managers and an eloquent ad-dress of welcome on behalf of the State was delivered by Governor Morris.

The exercises at the building were followed by a public reception, at which all the people from the Nutmeg State and other visitors were presented to the Governor. AMENDS TO MR. WANAMAKER. From The New-York World.

From The New-York World.

Upon more careful reflection we are convinced that we owe an apology to John Wanamaker.

We have, we regret to say, done him an injustice in comparing his appointment as Postmaster-General so closely with the nomination of J. J. Van Alen to be Ambassador at Rome.

We have already accepted Mr. Wanamaker's word that he gave only $10,000 to the Harrison campaign fund, and raised only $200,000 for Quay's use, instead of $100,000.

Mr. Wanamaker contributed and raised money as a Republicant to promote Republicanism, which meant to him protection to Pennsylvania industries. He did not do it primarily and solely to render himself eligible to appointment to office. There may have been thrift in his eye, but there was no speculation—as gambling is now frequently called.

Mr. Van Alen, who paid $50,000, was not and had never been Democratic in any true sense. He "put up like a gentleman" on the chance of getting an Ambassadorship.

Of the two moral crimes and political offences the Van Alen appointment is therefore the more odious, it is rendered doubly so by the fact that the Democratis had condemned the action of President Harrison steadily for four years. "The World" in particular, which supported Mr. Cleveland with a vigor which we may without immodesty claim to have been conspicuous, urged citizens to vote for him on the ground that he would be incapable of conduct like Harrison's,

Mr. Wanamaker will please accept our apologies for borrowing the just cause of offence in his appointment as a parallel to the darker nomination of an undemocratic millionaire to a high office for value received.
